WHEN WILL IN-PERSON GATHERINGS RESUME?

As soon as possible. While we expect our phased approach to open to line up with the phases that have been laid out by medical professionals, everything hinges on the health of our community and the CDC's recommendations. We have to be more cautious about how we reopen due to the size of our gatherings, so we'll likely open a little later than other local businesses and churches.

WILL REGULAR ACTIVITIES LOOK DIFFERENT?

While we expect our in-person gatherings to feel the same when we reach Phase 4, like the rest of society, we expect that the way we interact with each other will look a little different for a while. We're going to continue to modify the parts of our services that required physical contact before and we're doing everything we can to keep our facilities clean and safe.

Even if you see more face masks (and a lot more hand sanitizer), when we gather together again in-person, we hope it will feel like coming home.

WHAT ABOUT REGULAR YEARLY EVENTS?

In the near term, some of our events will gather as an online-only event, and some will still meet in-person (but look a little different this year).

HOW CAN WE GATHER TOGETHER RIGHT NOW?

In-person gatherings may be on-hold for a little while longer, but City Light Online has several great ways to gather digitally on a weekly basis. Check out our schedule below and make plans to join us as often as you can.
